

A person in a white t-shirt and dark pants stands on a sandy beach, looking out at a turbulent sea under a dark, stormy sky. The waves are breaking, and the horizon is visible in the distance. The overall mood is somber and contemplative.

Our Greatest Fear

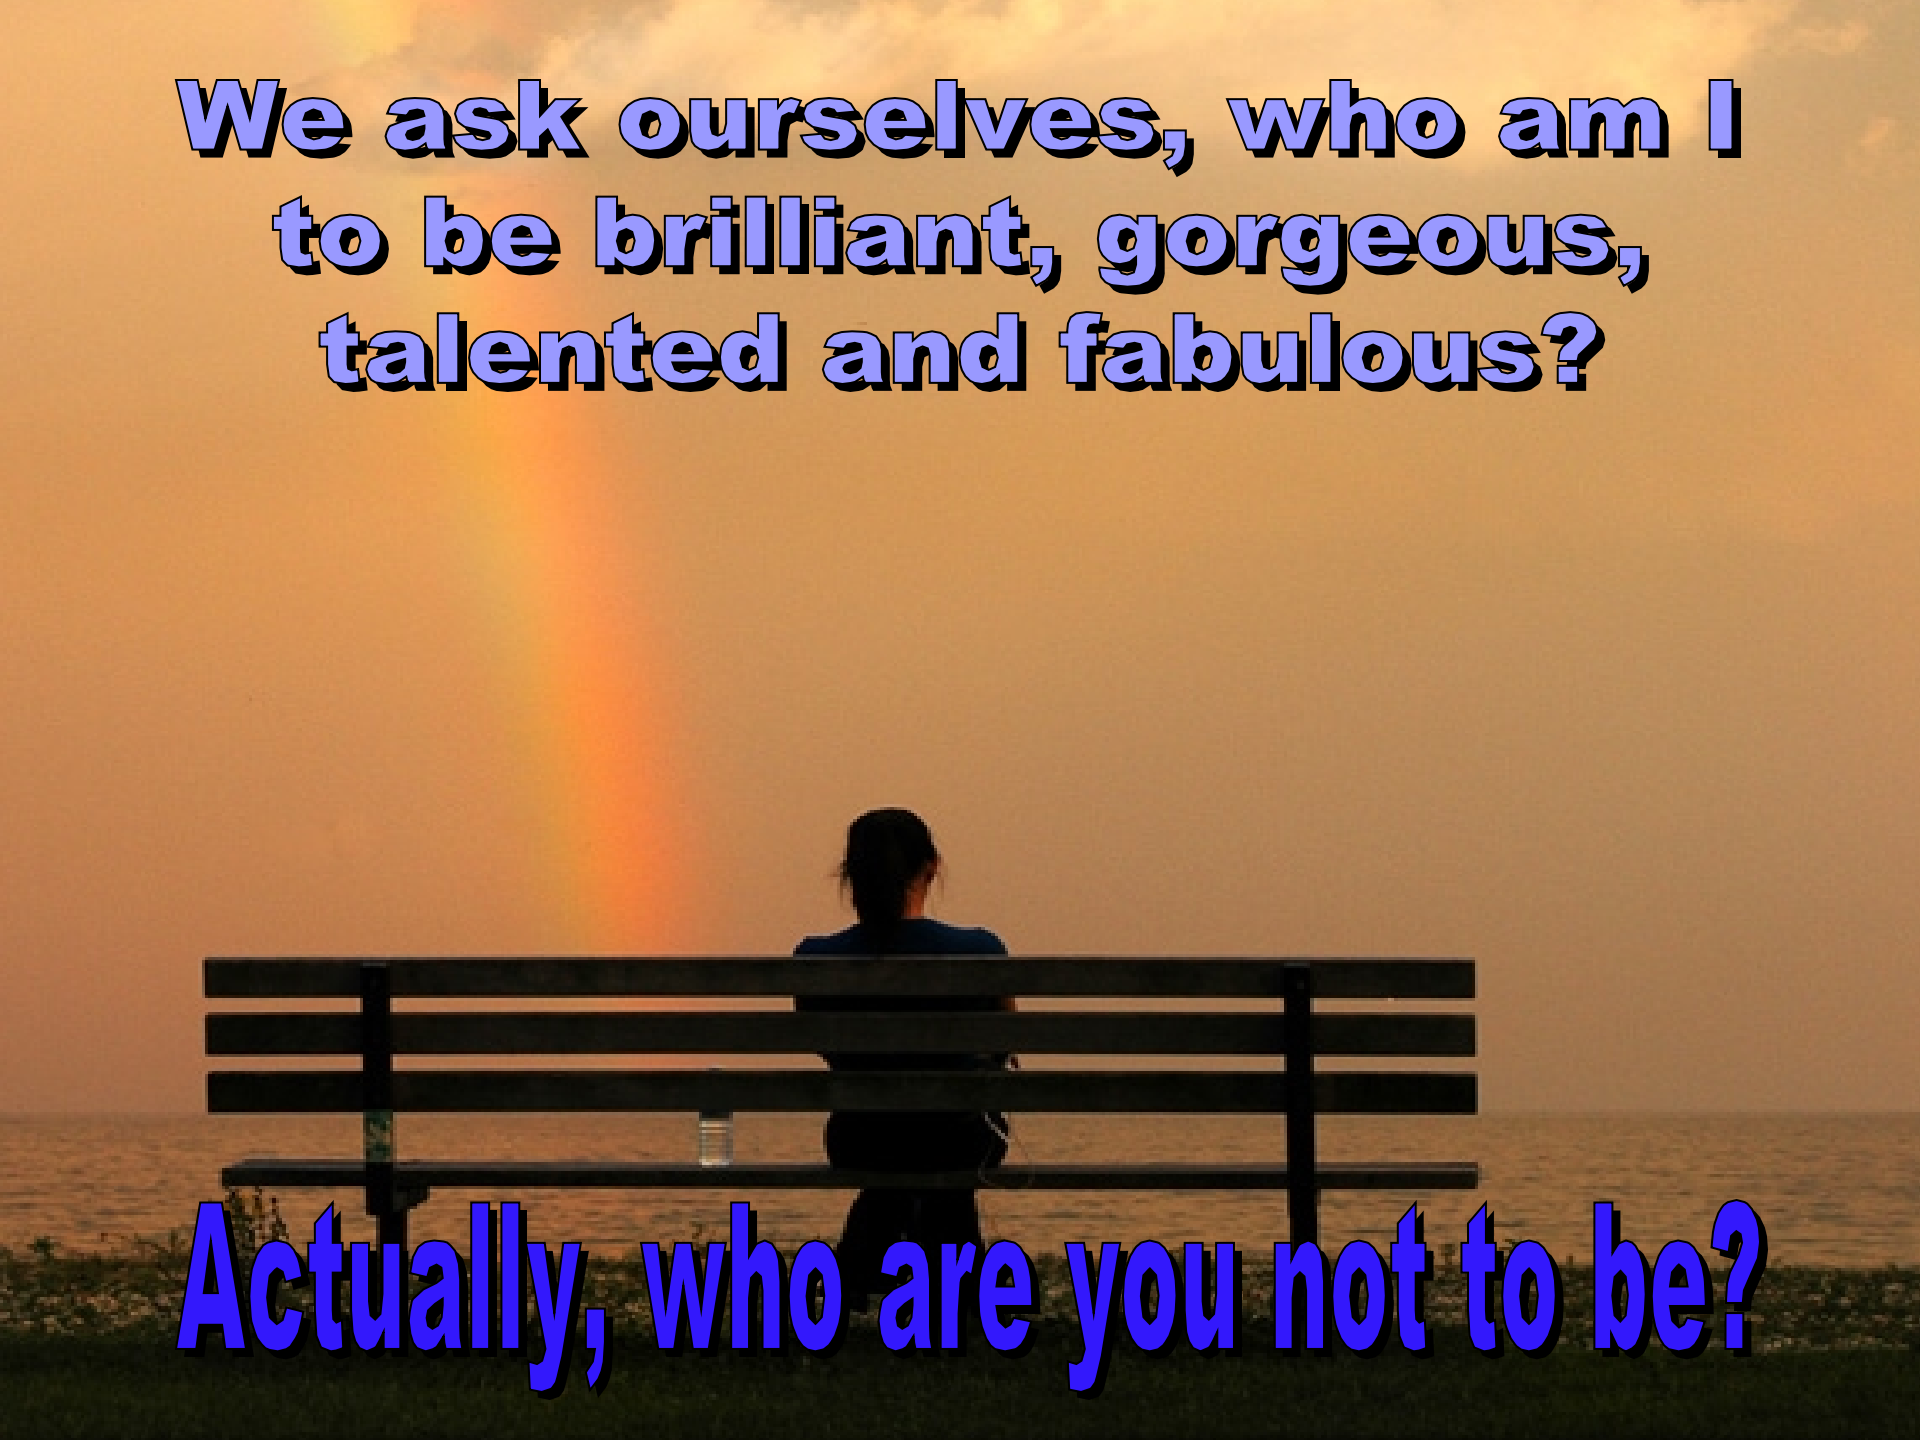

--Text by Marianne Williamson

Our deepest fear is not

Our deepest fear is that we are powerful beyond measure.

We ask ourselves, who am I
to be brilliant, gorgeous, talented and fabulous?

A person is sitting on a dark wooden bench, viewed from behind, looking out over a vast body of water under a sunset sky. The sun is low on the horizon, creating a bright orange glow that fades into a lighter sky. The person is silhouetted against the bright light of the sunset. The overall mood is contemplative and serene.

Actually, who are you not to be?

You are a child of God!

Your playing small does not serve the world.

There's nothing enlightened about shrinking so that other people won't feel insecure around you.

A young boy and girl are walking away from the camera, holding hands. They are silhouetted against a bright, glowing sun that fills the sky with a warm, golden light. The boy is on the left, wearing a red jacket and blue pants. The girl is on the right, wearing a light-colored hoodie and dark pants. The background features several trees, including a large evergreen on the left and a smaller one on the right. The overall scene is peaceful and evocative.

We were born to make manifest the glory of God that is within us.

It's not just in some of us;

A close-up photograph of a young woman with long, wavy brown hair. She is looking upwards and to the right with a slight smile, showing her teeth. The lighting is soft and warm, highlighting her face. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.

And as we let our own light shine, we unconsciously give other people permission to

As we are liberated from our own fear,
